(54) DISTRIBUTING METHOD FOR INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY INFORMATION

(57)Abstract:

PROBLEM TO BE SOLVED: To provide a distributing method for intellectual property information which distributes intellectual property, such as an invention before application for which a procedure for obtaining right as intellectual property is not followed yet, and a business starting plan including know-how or secret information, while keeping it secret.

SOLUTION: The intellectual property information is stored in a dedicated database and part of the intellectual property information is opened to the public on the Internet. The intellectual property information includes technical information on inventions, plans, etc., before patent application, etc., to the official institution and business plans regarding secret items. A business promoting institution which manages the database registers intellectual property transferring persons, intellectual property alienees, and fund/talent providers as members, puts information on the members including the intellectual property information in a database, and selects and opens some of the information to the public on the Internet. The business promoting institution further sets meeting opportunities for members who are to exchange information at member's requests while imposing secret keeping duty, and thus promotes contracts between members, the start of an enterprise of new business and the start of business, and further the acquisition of intellectual property right regarding new technology according to the intellectual property information.
